The President's Report

There are a number of words of thanks that must start this report:

First, to Jim Nash for his outstanding contribution as President for 2015-16. Jim, the enthusiasm you brought to the role, your contributions, ideas and oversight of our centenary year were, to use the phrase, in the finest traditions of the Regiment.

Second, to all those elected to the committee of 2016/17, thank you for agreeing to serve our Association this year. I look forward to working with you all.

Once again, the indefatigable John Balfour OAM will serve as Secretary and will continue to be - in the words of Jim Nash - the glue that holds us all together.

Finally, thanks to all the members who once again saw fit to elect me to serve as your President. I hope to repay that trust with service.

Those of you who attended the dinner commemorating the centenary of the 7 Field Artillery Brigade will recall the address given by LTCOL J. McGann. He observed that many of the associations that his Battalion has linked with are slowly dying and that our association was the strongest of all those associations. While this good to hear, I strongly believe that this should be taken not as encouragement, but as a warning - a warning that we too will slowly fade unless we continue to grow our membership.

To this end, at the 2016 AGM, a motion was passed to amend the constitution to open membership eligibility to all serving members of 7 Light Battery RAA. A sub committee will be formed from the association committee with a particular focus on increasing our membership.

Thanks to Dave Moysey, the Association has started expanding its presence in the social sphere with a Facebook page that is accessible to all members by request. I would encourage everyone with a Facebook account to get involved and make contributions.

Finally, the annual reunion will be held on Friday 11 November. Thanks once again and I look forward to seeing you all at the reunion.

Steve Flower
UBIQUE.

Centenary of 7th FAB – 19 March 2016

Members and guests at the 2016 ANZAC Luncheon.

EX-PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Every organisation, however large or small, has a past and hopes to have a future. Our collective past was marked by the remarkably successful celebrations held in honour of the raising of the 7th Field Artillery Brigade AIF, the precursor unit to our regiment and now to 7 Light Battery RAA. The March 2016 centenary dinner and parade were outcomes flowing from the dedication and hard work of a subcommittee under the leadership of Bob Moysey and again I would express a sincere word of thanks to all those involved.

Subject to committee approval, other events relating to the original brigade's service during WW1 may be commemorated over the next two years.

Looking to the future, our constitution was this year amended to allow former members of the light battery to join the association as full members, a right granted to serving members by a similar amendment made some years ago.

In keeping with the concept of appointing a subcommittee to manage a specific task, a recruiting team headed by Steve Flower is now in place to expand association membership by all means possible. The association Facebook page, set up by Dave Moysey, is of itself another tool with which we look to the future while being part of the electronic present.

On a prosaic level, a deal of "housework" was carried out during 2015 -2016. Amongst other things, old and/or outdated material was removed from our website, a modified membership application form was designed for those seeking full membership of the association and special provision was made for any serving member of 7 Light Battery who may wish to join the association for a trial period only. The fact we have a new welfare officer in Chris Bowen was also made more widely known.

On a personal level, I sincerely thank all members of the committee that I had the honour to serve on as president for their help and co-operation. Each and every one made a contribution and I expect will continue to do so this year with Steve Flower at the helm. A special word of thanks is due to John Balfour, truly a servant of the association of the highest order.

I would also thank those members who encouraged me privately during my term in office. Their kind words were and remain very much appreciated.

James Nash

FROM THE CO's DESK

Following on from 2015, 7 Lt Bty has maintained its strong focus on capability and support to Army's "Ready" 7 Combat Brigade, but with a slightly reduced exercise tempo in 2016. Notwithstanding this, the Bty has continued to contribute to real capability, by participating in, or providing instructional support to:

Australia Day Salute
Military Self-Defence	(MSD)	Course
(Feb – 9 days: HMAS Cerberus)
RAA Light Artillery	Induction	Course
(Feb – 15 days: Randwick & Singleton Range)
Exercise Funnelweb	Marksman	16-1
(Feb - W/E: Singleton Range)
Exercise Bugden	(Apr - W/E: Singleton Range)
Anzac Day Ceremonial Duties	(Manly, Forestville)

2 Div Joint Fires Courses Camp
(May – 16 days: Randwick)
Exercise Sepik River / Diamond Sprint
(May - 21 days: Shoalwater Bay Training Area,
Queensland in spt of 7 Bde)
Exercise Southern Cross (May – 14 days:
Bungendore in spt of HQ JOC)
Queen's Birthday Salute
41 RNSWR Centenary Celebrations
(Jul – W/E: Lismore)
100th Anniversary Western Front Commemorative
Activities (Jul – 28 days: France)
DMEO Course (Aug – 9 days: Singleton)
Military Self-Defence (MSD) Course
(Aug – 5 days: HMAS Cerberus)
Exercise Bullseye (Aug – W/E: Singleton)
RAA Regimental Officer's Basic Course
(Sep – 16 days: School of Artillery, Puckapunyal)
Exercise Funnelweb Marksman 16-2
(Sep - W/E: Singleton Range)

In addition, three members of the Battery were deployed on operations, capping a list of contributions that made up the Bty's "Ready" year in the Army's Force Generation (FORGEN) Cycle.

The main focal point of the major exercise in May was in deploying in support of 1 Regiment RAA where the Bty was able to integrate with 1 Regt, embedding Joint Fires Team personnel into Teams from 1 Regt and the mortar line firing as part of the 1 Regt program. The Bty was also supported on exercise by personnel from the SE Queensland-based 5/11 Lt Bty who provided some welcome support in the JFECC and Mortar Command Post. The provision of a second fire unit with different weapon characteristics provided good exposure and training to regular and reserve members alike, enabling JFT personnel to appreciate the differences and advantages of each weapon type and how they can be exploited in fire planning.

For the mortar line, firing in support of 1 Regt provided yet another valuable opportunity to keep pushing its proficiency levels and appreciate the benefits of maintaining such a high tempo in training. Firing their first rounds of a three-week exercise in a coordinated illumination mission on an unfamiliar range, from an unprepared position on the first night, with mixed crews is not something that would (or could) typically be undertaken by most indirect fire units on exercise, yet their ability to do just that in support of JFT from 1 Regt is a testament to their efforts over the last two years in working to develop and maintain their skills. It also served as a very effective reminder of the proficiency required to deliver the capability outcomes expected during the 'Ready' year.

As the Bty now enters the 'Reset' phase of the FORGEN cycle, its focus has shifted towards developing individual skills and recuperating from the cumulative impact of the high training tempo from the last two years. Capability comes at a cost – not just in terms of operational expenditure, salaries, fuel, ammunition or equipment wear and tear, but in often under appreciated human terms – injuries, missed family events & milestones, deferred holidays, missed civil career opportunities – all have been borne by members of the Bty through the recent FORGEN cycle to varying degrees. Their resilience during this time provides some insight to the commitment and strength of character of the Gunners in the Bty. This, combined with their many achievements, should serve as a healthy source of pride and satisfaction as they reflect on yet another year of a job well done.

LIGHT ARTILLERY IN 2 DIV AN UPDATE

* BREAKING NEWS *******

The Chief of Army has endorsed the creation of a RAA Regiment in 2nd Division to command all the Light Batteries currently within the Infantry Battalions. Amongst other things, this will enable greater technical competence, improve RAA identity, ensure Divisional and Brigade Commanders are better informed about joint fires matters, and very importantly enable a career path for Reserve Gunner Officers.

It is expected that the HQ for this new Regiment will be in Sydney, commencing in January 2018 and the nomenclature of the Unit will be announced shortly.

Key Personnel in 2 Div RAA units for 2016 are

HQ 2 Div Joint Fires Cell

The Mount Schanck trophy

The Mount Schanck Challenge Trophy is a perpetual challenge trophy that was presented in 1913 by W.J.T. Clarke, Esq of Melbourne for annual competition between Field Branch batteries of the Australian Field Artillery, Commonwealth Militia.

RAA Standing orders state “The Trophy is to be awarded to the most proficient field or medium battery of the RAA that contains a PT element. The winning battery is to hold the Mt Schanck Shield until the results of the next competition are promulgated”

Over the past 103 years there have been numerous winners, some Batteries that have now disappeared into the annals of history and years when the trophy was not contested or awarded. The last winners were 7 FD BTY, Perth in 2005 and the awarding of the trophy was suspended in 2008 with conditions for the competition under review. This hiatus was then extended as the ARes Regiments and Batteries transitioned from 105mm equipped guns to light batteries equipped with the 81mm mortar. That transition has now been completed and the Joint Fires cell at 2 Div reviewed the assessment criteria and the Mount Schanck trophy award was reinstated as of 2015.

All Light Batteries of 2 Div are eligible to enter with the assessment team being invited to attend whenever a Battery Commander invites the Joint Fires Cell team to review the battery’s performance on an LFX. Batteries are assessed at any time within a two year cycle and they may choose to be assessed on a paired Battery LFX, thus agreeing to share the award.

The first assessments were conducted in 2015 with four of the six Batteries inviting the assessment team to evaluate their battery against the newly agreed criteria. The winner was decided upon in consultation with the Head of Regiment, BRIG P Gates and the winner announced during the RAA CPX in November last year, with all Battery Commanders present. The first winners of the Mount Schanck Challenge Trophy in 10 years was a joint award to both 7 LT BTY and 23 LT BTY.

Although the actual trophy now remains at the School of Artillery, the Mount Schanck Challenge Shield, which depicts the original trophy together with a suitably engraved silver plate, was presented to MAJ Wong and MAJ Jeong by BRIG Gates. The shield will be displayed for 12 months by each Battery until it is returned late in 2017 when the next biannual award winner will be presented.
